In 2020 the already unfriendly legal framework governing freedom of expression, right to information and digital rights in Pakistan worsened considerably. The country experienced major setbacks in enforcement of digital rights, freedom of expression and right to information – especially in online spaces – through regression in the areas of internet policies and regulations. This resulted in a rise in censorship, hate speech, digital surveillance and breach of privacy and disinformation and misinformation online.

The following were key characteristics that ended up constricting the free speech and access to information environments during 2020:

1. Accelerating internet controls: The government in 2020 accelerated its efforts to beef up internet controls with the intended consequence of expanding its policy of reduced tolerance for dissent. It notified the Removal and Blocking of Unlawful Online Content (Procedure, Oversight and Safeguards) Rules 2020 under the controversial Prevention of Electronic Crimes Act (PECA) law. The proposed regulations will govern online free speech and internet content for media producers, citizens and social media platforms that distribute content. The rules aim to strengthen the shackles on free speech and digital rights.

2. Worsening media legal context: The media legal context of Pakistan in 2020 was characterized by an aggressive government seeking to extend and expand its authority to overregulate the media sector and to redefine the boundaries of free speech not just of media and information practitioners, including journalists and online citizens, but also of opposition political parties and civil society movements and their leaders.

3. Expanding censorship online: Internet freedom in Pakistan declined during 2020 due to authorities’ increased blocking of political, social, and cultural websites and undeclared policy of connectivity restrictions and increased disinformation. There was an increased reliance on the PECA law to encourage censorship. The cybercrime law was repeatedly invoked against journalists and opinion makers for exercising freedom of expression and social media activism. Several journalists and rights activists faced inquiries, abductions, investigations, arrests and criminal related to their online / social media activities and posts.

4. Hate speech prevalence online: Hate speech against citizens, journalists and religious minorities on social media and their online harassment were prevalent in 2020. Discussions on the themes of religious minorities, security agencies, human rights, gender, politics and development elicited the most hostile reactions. Citizens, journalists, politicians and activists faced hate speech, hostility and organized targeting for their opinions as well as threats, abuse, trolling, hacking, blocking and charges of treason from various threat actors including individuals, political parties, religious groups, unknown organized groups and even official sources.

5. Growing misinformation, disinformation and fake news: In 2020 concerns in Pakistan grew about misinformation, disinformation and fake news as political polarization grew encouraged by the ruling party and its highest-ranking leaders. Misinformation, in particular, targeted women activists participating in the annual Aurat March on International Women’s Day wherein disinformation led to threats against several activists forcing them to go underground for safety.
CHAPTER ONE: INTERNET REGULATIONS

1.1 Internet Television Regulation

On January 08, 2020, Pakistan Electronic Media Regulatory Authority (PEMRA) uploaded a consultation paper on proposed regulation of Web TV & Over the Top TV (OTT) Content Services. In the introductory part of the proposed regulations, PEMRA claimed that:

“The extensive growth of the web TV & OTT market and the excessive disruption of these services to traditional broadcast services have made regulators vigilant all over the world. Moreover, the broadcasters /TV operators and other traditional service providers are losing their market share to online web TV and content providers. There are other regulatory issues also which necessitate it to regulate & hence license the Web TV & OTT services.”

The proposed regulations seemed to be a draconian attempt to control the proliferation of YouTube / website channels – being run by dozens of Pakistani journalists forced out from mainstream media over the past year to curtail their objective and professional work. The civil society stakeholders considered the proposal as an attempt to materialize otherwise rejected idea of Pakistan Media Regulatory Authority (PMRA) – a proposed single controlling authority for print, broadcast and online media – model through these regulations. It was also feared that, through these regulations, PEMRA intended to assume/acquire PECA [Prevention of Electronic Crimes Act, 2016]-type powers for itself, which have already proved controversial and a thinly disguised framework to hinder freedom of expression [FOE] online.

Civil society stakeholders strongly reacted to the proposal. IRADA along with Digital Rights Foundation (DRF), Bolo Bhi and Freedom Network (FN) – independent civil society Pakistani organizations championing civil liberties and digital rights - organized a consultative meeting on 23 January 2020 in Islamabad. The meeting was attended by dozens of journalists and media practitioners, digital rights activists, IT industry representatives, internet service providers, human rights groups, women's rights advocates, lawyers, social media practitioners, and media rights groups. The Consultation produced a statement¹, signed by a large number of civil society groups and prominent individuals, rejecting the PEMRA proposal outrightly.

On this hue and cry of the civil society activists and groups, Senate’s Functional Committee on Human Rights took notice\(^2\) of the proposed regulations and asked PEMRA to brief the Committee thereon during its meeting on February 10, 2020. The Committee also invited civil society stakeholders to share their views on the proposed regulations. Nevertheless, after hearing the PEMRA and civil society representatives, the Committee rejected the proposed move stating that the PEMRA lacks authority to regulate web TV and over-the-top (OTT) media service in the country\(^3\).

1.2 The Citizens Protection (against Online Harm) Rules, 2020

While the dust of PEMRA’s proposed regulation of Web TV & OTT Content Services was yet to settle down, reports of another set of rules to regulate social media in Pakistan emerged in the media. This time, it was the Pakistan Telecommunication Authority (PTA) and Minister In-charge of the [Information Technology and Telecommunication] Division who were empowered to exercise their control over the social media in Pakistan. In fact, a few of the participants of the consultation on PEMRA’s proposed Web TV Regulations hinted that the PTA is also embarking upon having rules with the aim to establish some guidelines to apparently ‘protect citizens against online harm’ on the internet.

These Citizens Protection (Against Online Harm) Rules, 2020 were reportedly approved by the Federal Government on 21st of January 2020. The PTA officials later informally claimed that these Rules were made in compliance with the direction of the Islamabad High Court (IHC) in Awami Workers Party vs PTA (W.P. No 634/2019) to the PTA to prescriber rules under Section 37(2) of the PECA 2016\(^4\).

As mentioned in the Rules, the Federal Government made these ‘Rules’ while exercising powers conferred to it under following provisions of the Pakistan Telecommunication (Re-organization) Act, 1996 (the PTA Act) and the PECA 2016\(^5\). (Nevertheless, the legality of the Rules under these clauses is still a question)

- Clause (c) of sub-section (2A) of section 8 of the PTA Act: Powers of the Federal Government to issue policy directives
  - (c) requirements of national security and of relationships between Pakistan and Government of any other country or territory outside Pakistan and other States or territories outside Pakistan.

\(^5\) Text of Rules initially available on official website of Federal Ministry of IT and Telecommunication. However, it was removed from the website later.
• Sub-section (1) of section 54 of the PTA Act: National Security

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law for the time being in force, in the interest of national security or in the apprehension of any offence, the Federal Government may authorise any person or persons to intercept calls and messages or to trace calls through any telecommunication system.

• Clause (ag) of sub-section (2) of section 57 of the PTA Act: Power to make rules

(ag) enforcing national security measures in the telecommunication sector.

• Sections 35 of the PECA Act: Powers of an authorized officer

• Section 37 of the PECA Act: Unlawful Content

• Section 48 of the PECA Act: Prevention of Electronic Crimes

• Section 51 of the PECA Act: Power to make rules

Rules provide two distinct structures and procedures: 1) office of National Coordinator (Rules 3 to 7); and 2) complaint mechanism for blocking or removal of such ‘unlawful’ content online (Rules 8 to 12). While second procedure, i.e., complaints mechanism under section 37 of PECA 2016, appears to be result of the directions of IHC in Awami Workers Party Case, first structure seems to be a completely novel idea in context of PECA 2016.

1.2.1 National Coordinator and its Mandate

The Rules empower the Minister In-charge of the [IT and Telecommunication] Division to designate a national coordinator. The National Coordinator (Rule 3) is mandated to perform following functions:

(a) coordinate efforts of stakeholders for performance of functions related to regulation of Online Systems;

(b) advise the Federal or Provincial Governments, and issue instructions to departments, authorities and agencies, in accordance with requirements of National Security in relation to management or regulation or functioning of social media companies. The departments, authorities or agencies shall act in compliance of the said instructions. Such instructions may include actions related to blocking of unlawful online content, acquisition of data or information from social media companies, and other such matters;

(c) engage with the social media companies on behalf of the Federal Government; and

(d) direct concerned official representatives of any Social Media Company to appear before it in person to discuss any aspect related to operation of Online System.

The Rules also require social media companies – an entity that owns or runs or manages online systems such as Social Media Applications, Over The Top Application (OTTA) and cloud based content distribution services – to:

• register with PTA, establish a permanent registered office in Islamabad, appoint a focal person, and establish one or more database servers;
• remove, suspend or disable access to such online content, which according to PTA is in contravention of any law, rule, regulation or instructions of the National Coordinator for the time being in force; and
• remove, suspend or disable access to such account, online content of citizens of Pakistan residing outside its territorial boundaries and posts on online content that are involved in spreading of fake news or defamation and violates or affects the religious, cultural, ethnic, or national security sensitivities of Pakistan.

1.2.2 Response of Civil Society and Media Stakeholders Civil society and media strongly reacted to this development. Pakistan Federal Union of Journalists, (PFUJ), out rightly rejected these rules6. Human Rights Commission of Pakistan (HRCP) and former Chairman Senate Mr. Raza Rabbani supported the PFUJ over its criticism of the Government and called for withdrawal of the Rule7.

Similarly, Pakistan Bar Council’s (PBC) and the Supreme Court Bar Association’s (SCBA) expressed their concerns about the Rules and termed them as curbs on online free speech, invasion of privacy of citizens and restriction on access to information8. Several other lawmakers from the opposition parties in the Senate9 – upper house of the Parliament – criticized the government of having bypassed the parliament in drafting the rules10. Among the political parties, Pakistan People’s Party (PPP) was vocal in condemning the approval of these laws and considered it to be digital dictatorship which the Government aims to impose. PPP termed the Rules unconstitutional, regressive and violating Article 19 and 19 A of the constitution of Pakistan11.

1.2.3 Online Harm Rules and International Response Asia Internet Coalition (AIC) – an industry association that comprises leading internet and technology companies, namely Facebook, Twitter, Google, Amazon, AirBnb, Apple, Booking.com, Expedia Group, Grab, LinkedIn, LINE, Rakuten, and Yahoo (Oath) issued a statement on February 13, 2020 mentioning that the Coalition is “deeply concerned to see the Pakistan Government release a set of broad reaching online rules without any consultation with stakeholders, including industry12.” The AIC further mentioned that “[t]hese rules jeopardise the personal safety and privacy of citizens, and undermine free expression.” The Coalition urged the government to

8 https://www.dawn.com/news/1534581
reconsider these rules. AIC warned in a letter to the Prime Minister of Pakistan that these Rules would make it extremely difficult for AIC Members to make their services available to Pakistani users and businesses13.

Global Network Initiative (GNI) – a unique multi-stakeholder platform having representatives of information and communications technology (ICT) companies, human rights and press freedom organizations, academics, and investors – also expressed concern about lack of public consultation and the broad scope of the Rules and potential significant risks to privacy and freedom of expression14.

Committee to Protect Journalists (CPJ) – an independent, nonprofit organization that promotes press freedom worldwide and defends the right of journalists to report the news safely and without fear of reprisal – said that these “stringent but vague rules approved by Pakistan’s federal cabinet threaten the ability of journalists to report the news and communicate with their sources15. The cabinet should immediately reverse course and seek broad consultations with legislators and civil society, including the media, on how to proceed with any such regulations.”

The US chief diplomat for South Asian affairs Alice Wells in a tweet termed the Rules “a setback for freedom of expression and development of digital economy16.”

1.2.4 Judiciary on Social Media Rules
During the protest against these Rules in February 2020, a lawyer in Lahore (Punjab) filed a petition in the Lahore High Court for ‘implementation of the Rules in letter and spirit.’ The Court sought a report from the federal Government on these Rules17. However, another group of activists and lawyers filed a petition in the Lahore High Court arguing that the Rules were prima facie illegal and contravening and exceeding the scope of the PTA Act, PECA 2016 as well as [in] violation of fundamental constitutional rights. Both of these petitions are still pending before the Court for further adjudication18.

Similarly, another lawyer in Islamabad filed a petition in the IHC alleging that the rules approved to control the social media are against the basic and fundamental rights to information and these rules are inconsistent with the constitutional guarantee in form of fundamental rights of citizen. The petition also argued that the rules are ultra vires the constitution of Pakistan, the PECA 2016 and PTA Act of 1996. The court rejected the petitioner’s request to immediately suspend the Rules; however, it issued notices to the federation, information technology and law ministries for their responses.

On March 15, 2020, the IHC directed PTA to submit the Rules proposed to regulate social media and warned that constitutional courts never allowed the Government to ban media as is happening in a neighbouring country. In the meanwhile, on March 13, 2020 in another petition filed by Awami Workers Party, the IHC issued notice to the chairman and members of PTA for not framing rules as provided in the PECA 2016.

1.2.5 Government’s Reaction on Civil Society Demands and Judicial Directions
Reacting to growing local and international and local civil society and media/internet stakeholders’ pressure and directions of the courts, on February 18, 2020, the Prime Minister Imran Khan directed the authorities to take all stakeholders on board before implementing the new rules.

Acting under these directions, the Federal Ministry of IT and Telecommunication formed a committee to review the Rules. As per the reports, the Committee was headed by the Chairman PTA. Other members of the Committee include additional secretary of Ministry of IT and Communication; Ms. Tania Aidrus, member of the Strategic Reforms Implementation Unit, Prime Minister Office; Dr Arslan Khalid, focal person on digital media at the PM Office; Federal Minister for Human Rights Dr Shireen Mazari and Barrister Ali Zafar.

On June 03, 2020, it was reported that the above Committee has formally initiated the process of consultation. This process was started despite continuous demand of the civil society and human rights groups to take back the Rules before initiating the consultation process. The Committee scheduled a meeting with the stakeholders on June 04, 2020.

Earlier in May, the PTA uploaded a survey questionnaire on its website to seek input from the public and relevant stakeholders for “refining the suspended Rules”. However, human rights groups refused to participate in the review process. Rights groups regretted that the consultative process ignores the key demand of civil society, which is the formal denotification of the rules. The rights groups reiterated their position, which they took in March 2020, to boycott government consultation on the Rules unless the cabinet withdraws the rules which it reportedly approved on Feb 11, 2020.

In the meanwhile, on June 05, 2020, the Asia Internet Coalition (AIC) welcomed government’s decision to open up consultation the Rule and sent its submissions thereon to the Chairman PTA. However, in its letter to the Chairman of PTA, the AIC “strongly recommended that PTA and the Government of Pakistan put in place a comprehensive framework for the consultation, including a paper or exposure draft that outlines details on the government’s proposed regulatory approach.” AIC also demanded that a “consultation paper should seek extensive public policy input, which will inform the development of a holistic public policy approach to deal with the issues at hand, and if needed, ask about and inform the contours of any future additional regulatory or legislative framework.” Nevertheless, it was reported that Chairman PTA has held a meeting with AIC via video link on June 19, 2020.

1.3 The Removal and Blocking of Unlawful Online Content (Procedure, Oversight and Safeguards), Rules 2020

In October 2020, the Asia Internet Coalition (AIC) showed it’s resentment to the press reports indicating that the Pakistan government is approving new rules to remove or block unlawful social media content without consultation and feedback from the industry. The AIC urged the government to reconsider its approach in working with the industry and to adopt policy approaches that will support the growth of Pakistan’s digital economy on October 23, 2020.

Nevertheless, the government did not acknowledge the concerns raised by AIC and notified the Removal and Blocking of Unlawful Online Content (Procedure, Oversight and Safeguards), Rules 2020 in October 2020. However, these Rules remain a top secret until November 18, 2020 when the government made the Rules public. In the meanwhile, civil society groups and concerned individuals urged the government to initiate a credible consultative process in the drafting of social media rules. They argued that the non-consultative measures could have a detrimental impact on country’s digital ecosystem, economy and online expression.

AIC expressed its alarm over the scope of the new law targeting internet companies and warned that the Rules would make it extremely difficult for [its] members to make their services available to Pakistani users and businesses. Digital rights activists and groups considered that the Rules are nothing but an attempt to control the narratives and silence citizens that is unconstitutional, impractical and detrimental to Pakistan’s development. They also termed this step of the government to be the tunnel vision, designed to ensure that nobody has the power to effectively challenge the dominant narratives.

The IHC, while hearing a petition against the ban in TiKToK on November 02, 2020, asked the PTA to present a notified copy of the Rules before the Court. However, on December 03, 2020, the Court reprimanded the government over the controversial Rules and criticized the PTA for its failure to share the draft law with the relevant stakeholders including the PBC.

On December 05, 2020, AIC wrote a letter to Prime Minister of Pakistan and showed their concerns over the Rules. The AIC sought Prime Minister’s assistance to ensure that the Pakistan government makes critical changes to the rules through a credible consultation process.

Nevertheless, on December 18, 2020, the IHC admitted a writ petition filed by the Pakistan Federal Union of Journalists (PFUJ) challenging vires of the Removal and Blocking of Unlawful Online Content (Procedure, Oversight and Safeguards), Rules 2020. The Journalists Defence Committee of Pakistan Bar Council (PBCJDC) - a committee of volunteer lawyers constituted by the PBC to defend journalists in the court of law – filed this petition on behalf of the PFUJ.
CHAPTER TWO: BANNING SOCIAL MEDIA AND ONLINE PLATFORMS

The year saw reemergence of banning social media applications and platforms in the country. Several social media applications including BIGO Live, PUBG, TikTok, Tinder, Grindr, Say Hi, Tagged and Skout were banned by the authorities in Pakistan. Ironically, two federal ministers publicly denounced such bans. Federal Minister for the Ministry of Science and Technology, Mr. Fawad Chaudhry said that these bans “will destroy Pakistan’s tech industry and development of technology will be permanently hampered”. Federal Minister for IT and Telecommunication Syed Amin-ul-Haq said that he would never support closure of any social media platform. However, he made ‘national security’ as a ‘justified exception’ for banning such platforms.

2.1 Ban on YouTube and PUBG

On July 01, 2020, PTA temporarily banned Players Unknown Battleground (PUBG) - an online game after receiving complaints from different people – claiming to have “received numerous complaints against PUBG alleging that the game is addictive, wastage of time and poses serious negative impact on physical and psychological health of the children.”

On July 24, 2020, IHC declared PTA’s move to temporarily suspend PUBG void and directed the authority to “immediately” remove the ban. However, on July 27, 2020, the PTA tweeted that the “PUBG game shall remain blocked in Pakistan.” The PTA claimed that decision was taken in accordance with IHC’s orders. However, on July 30, 2020, PTA lifted the ban on PUBG in Pakistan reportedly after a meeting of PUBG representative with the Authority.

2.2 Amazon Web Server Disruption in Pakistan

While the issue of PUBG ban was yet to be resolved, Amazon’s web server reportedly faced disruption in the country. It was reported on social media that software houses and business outfits across Pakistan observed “extremely slow performance or outright unavailability of a plethora of Internet sites, apps and services since midnight.”46 It was reported that the tech experts have “speculated that [this disruption] must be the doing of the country’s telecom regulator i.e., PTA.”47 It was alleged that since PTA was “promoting the mandatory registration of VPN tunnels, this might be a ‘dry-run’ before the actual action.” However, PTA through its official twitter handle announced that it has not taken any action to block VPNs or other services related to Amazon Web Server.

2.3 Ban on Five Dating Apps

On September 01, 2020, it was reported that PTA has “blocked five dating and live streaming applications including the popular Tinder in Pakistan. These apps include, namely: Tinder, Grindr, Say Hi, Tagged and Skout. It was reportedly alleged that these apps were streaming immoral and indecent content resulting in negative effects on the society. As per the news report, the PTA demanded from the management of these platforms to remove dating services and moderate live streaming content in accordance with the local laws of Pakistan.

2.4 Ban on TikTok and Bigo Live

TikTok, a video sharing social networking service, owned by a Chinese company, is used to make short form of videos in different genres like dance, comedy, and education. Bigo Live is a live streaming platform where users share live moments with their followers. On July 20, 2020, PTA blocked TiKToK and Bigo due to their allegedly “immoral, obscene and vulgar content” and “their extremely negative effect on the society in general and youth in particular. PTA asked the management of the apps to “moderate the socialization and content within legal and moral limits in accordance with the laws of the country.”

However, on July 30, 2020, PTA announce through its official twitter account that, after negotiations with the management of the Bigo, the ban on the app is being

On August 07, 2020, it was reported that the TikTok, after negotiations with PTA, has upgraded its ‘Community Guidelines’ and released its Urdu language version for the first time. Bloomberg reported that the app was installed 43 million times in the country including 14.7 million installs in year 2020 alone, which made Pakistan twelfth largest market of TikTok. Nevertheless, the PTA again banned the app in Pakistan on October 09, 2020 allegedly upon receipt of complaints from different segments of the society against immoral/indecent content on the app. According to a report the ban on the app affected around 20 million users.

The Senate Committee on Delegated Legislation, reportedly, criticized the regulatory authority for banning the app. The Committee noted that Pakistan needs to pace up with global development and take corrective measures instead of adopting isolationist approach. On October 15, 2020, in a petition filed by Muhammad Shafiq Jutt, an athlete and winner of world championship of kickboxing against the ban on TikTok, the IHC issued the notices to PTA, federal government and Ministry of IT and Telecommunication over the ban on social media app. The Court also appointed President of Pakistan Federal Union of Journalists (PFUJ) and Vice Chairman of PBC as amici to assist the court on banning of online platforms and implications for freedom of expression and speech and right to access information under Article 19 and 19A of the Constitution and alleged misuse of PECA. However, on October 10, 2020, it was reported that TikTok has been restored in Pakistan.

2.5 Notice Issued to Google, Wikipedia

On December 21, 2020, the Lahore High Court expressed its concern over the presence of alleged ‘blasphemous material on internet’. The PTA, on December 26, 2020, issued notice to the internet giants – Google and Wikipedia – under the Removal and Blocking of Unlawful Online Content (Procedure, Oversight, and Safeguard) Rules 2020 over dissemination of irreligious content.

2.6 Virtual Private Network (VPN) Registration in Pakistan

In June, PTA unleashed a controversy by requiring registration of Virtual Private Networks (VPNs) in Pakistan. Through advertisement on June 08, 2020 and press release on June 10, 2020, PTA announced that it is “continuing with the process of registration of VPNs. The exercise is being undertaken to promote legal ICT services/business in Pakistan and safety of telecom users.” The PTA stated that “appropriate registration is required from PTA for any mode of communication in which communication becomes hidden or encrypted.” The regulator set 30th June 2020 as the deadline for the registration of VPNs. The press release also claimed that the “process for registration of VPN is not new and has been in vogue since 2010.” The press release further stated that “[a]ction will be taken only against unauthorized VPNs for terminating illegal traffic which causes loss to the national exchequer.”

2.6.1 What is Virtual Private Network (VPN) and why its registration is a problem?

VPN is a facility that “allows an internet user to create a ‘virtual’, private channel between their device and an internet server. This channel bypasses the internet’s physical infrastructure usually run and/or regulated by a state and/or by commercial internet service providers (ISPs). VPN allows the internet users to hide their Internet Protocol Address (IP Address) and, if their VPN is encrypted, to conceal the contents of their online activities from their service provider.” Furthermore, “VPNs can be helpful for the average internet user when they want to access content such as TV shows that aren’t otherwise available in Pakistan. But they serve a much more important purpose in promoting freedoms of opinion and expression by protecting the privacy of users.”

Rights-based organizations fear that once the VPNs will be registered, “the risk of private information being accessed by those with malicious intent will increase dramatically.” This will put users in “greater danger if they use the internet to communicate discontent with the government and seek help anonymously.” It is also “argued that the restrictions on VPNs are meant to stave off the ‘crime’ of political dissent since it will be almost impossible to use a government-approved VPN for anything other than business and commerce. Since a large part of the “blocked social media platforms or communication applications” carry political contents, it is highly unlike that human rights defenders, activists promoting freedom of expression and right to information and campaigners for civil liberties will be allowed to use VPNs to access such content.” So far, PTA has extended the deadline till July 31, 2020 for registration of VPNs67.

CHAPTER THREE: COVID -19 AND INTERNET ACCESS IN TRIBAL AREAS AND GILGIT BALTISTAN

3.1 Internet in Erstwhile Federally Administered Tribal Areas

In May 2018, erstwhile Federally Administered Tribal Areas (FATA) merged into the province of Khyber Pakhtunkhwa through 25th Constitutional Amendment. Resultantly, people of erstwhile FATA got entitlement to the fundamental rights, enshrined in the Constitution of Pakistan for citizens of Pakistan. Prior to the merger, due to ongoing security operations, most of the internet services providers were not allowed to operate in these areas. However, in April 2018, the Ministry of IT and Telecom announced that an agreement has been signed between service providers and authorities to provide broadband internet facility in far-flung areas to boost socio-economic development of the area68. Nevertheless, people of FATA have had a very limited / patchy access to internet. The authorities have been blocking / restricting access to Internet in the name of security situation in these areas69.

However, outbreak of COVID-19 forced governments to imposed lockdowns to restrict the spread of disease and everyone had to go into self-quarantine. Initially, offices and academic institutions were closed but, at later stage, most of them started operating ‘online.’ Other than those who do the manual work, most of the office workers were asked to ‘work from home.’ All academic institutions were also closed. However, many of them started ‘online classes’ for their students. This required access to fast-speed internet for these ‘online ‘workers, teachers and students. Nevertheless, most parts of erstwhile FATA have either no access to internet or a very feeble service in the area.

On 14 April 2020, IHC, while admitting a petition filed by a student – Syed Mohammad from the area – directed the Ministry of IT to reconnect the erstwhile FATA to the cyberworld70. The Court directed the concerned government authorities to submit a reply by April 20, 2020. Earlier, on 4th of April 2020, students of different universities hailing from South Waziristan tribal district staged a protest demonstration outside the Wana Press Club over unavailability of 3G and 4G internet in merged tribal districts due to which their studies are being impacted badly. On June 03, 2020, students unions staged a protest demonstration outside Landikotal and North Waziristan and demanded the restoration of cellular internet service in the merged tribal districts.

On April 22, 2020, daily Dawn reported that the government has awarded PKR 92 million contract under Universal Service Fund (USF) to Jazz – a private cellular company – for developing broadband in Kurram district, previous known as Kurram Agency - one of the agencies of erstwhile FATA. However, on April 28, 2020, the Federal Interior Ministry told IHC that the Government was willing to restore 3G/4G broadband service in the erstwhile FATA but sought time to reconnect the tribal districts with the internet.

However, on 11th of May 2020, IHC Chief Justice observed that “through a constitutional amendment, the tribal agencies, previously under the administrative control of the federal government, had been merged with Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.” Therefore, the Court asked the counsel to assist the court in determine whether it could issue a directive to the provincial Government under the constitutional jurisdiction of Article 199 of the Constitution to enforce the fundamental rights in the province. The Court also “reminded the counsel that the Supreme Court had recently set aside the IHC judgement that revoked powers of the federal government to suspend mobile phone services on special occasions in some areas of the country. As per the IHC observation, this SC decision has “enabled the federal government to suspend mobile phone and internet services in any area and companies providing these services had been asked to approach the federal government for redressal of their grievances.”

On June 03, 2020, students unions staged a protest demonstration outside Landikotal Press Club and demanded the restoration of cellular internet service in the merged tribal districts. Similarly, students of merged tribal districts held another protest on June 20, 2020 in North Waziristan. Dozens of youth participated in the protest and demanded the government to restore internet and other cellular services in the area. As reported, the protest in Miranshah came two days after the student of Khyber tribal district staged protest in Bara against lack of internet service in the area.

74 https://www.dawn.com/news/1553046
On July 28, 2020, it was reported that the Kurram police has arrested a student and a rights activist - Sayed Muhammad - who had moved the IHC for the restoration of the internet in the tribal districts, reportedly without any provocation.

3.2 Internet Connectivity Issues in Gilgit Baltistan – Covid Corner

Following the Covid outbreak and universities closure across the country, a large number of students in Gilgit Baltistan (GB) – another area having problems of internet connectivity in Pakistan – studying in various educational institutions across the country staged a protest demonstration outside the Hunza Press Club on June 29, 2020 against the online classes and poor internet connectivity in the region. In July 17, 2020, it was reported that the Senate Standing Committee on Information Technology, while discussing the issue of poor or lack of internet connectivity in various parts of the country called for a comprehensive strategy and planning to ensure education facilities to all students with limited resources and technological facilities.

4.1 Judiciary and Cybercrimes

In November 2019, the Lahore High Court (LHC) was petitioned “to order action against persons involved in an [alleged] organised scandalous campaign on social media against the judges of the superior courts”\footnote{https://www.thenews.com.pk/print/576574-plea-against-social-media-drive-against-judiciary}. As reported, “the petitioner alleged that judicial organ of the state was subjected to derogatory remarks on social media through an organised campaign run from social media cells of different political parties and other groups. The Chief Justice of the LHC sought reports from concerned ministries to ascertain the status of the country with regard to international conventions on cybercrime i.e., Budapest Convention on Cybercrimes\footnote{“The [Budapest] Convention is the first international treaty on crimes committed via the Internet and other computer networks, dealing particularly with infringements of copyright, computer-related fraud, child pornography and violations of network security. It also contains a series of powers and procedures such as the search of computer networks and interception. Its main objective, set out in the preamble, is to pursue a common criminal policy aimed at the protection of society against cybercrime, especially by adopting appropriate legislation and fostering international co-operation.” https://www.coe.int/en/web/conventions/full-list/-/conventions/treaty/185}. However, reportedly, on January 31, 2020, the Ministry of Interior informed the Court that “Pakistan had not signed so far the Budapest Convention on cybercrime due to reservations shown by intelligence agencies.\footnote{https://www.dawn.com/news/1531734}” However, the ministry informed the Court that “a committee had been constituted comprising all stakeholders, including law enforcement agencies and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, to go clause by clause of all sections of the convention.” As reported in the media, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs also told the court that the Budapest Convention was highly intrusive and would compromise our data sovereignty.

Similarly, on February 15, 2020, while speaking at a seminar in Lahore, Chief Justice of Pakistan Justice Gulzar Ahmed said the government needed to work seriously on cyber laws and enhance capacity of law-enforcement agencies to deal with the cybercrimes\footnote{https://www.dawn.com/news/1534691}. However, Chief Justice of the Lahore High Court said that the cyber laws in the country were effective but the law enforcement agencies lacked capacity to implement them.
4.1.1. Prime Ministerial Directive against Alleged Social Media Campaign Against Judiciary

On April 15, 2020, media reported about a directive issued by Prime Minister Office against alleged social media campaign against the judiciary of Pakistan. According to the directive, the “Prime Minister has taken a very serious view of the recent campaign on social media in which uncalled, immoderate and intemperate language has been used against judiciary of Pakistan and Chief Justice of Pakistan.” The Prime Minister also directed the Director General of Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) “to look into this malicious campaign and depute a team of suitable officers to track down the [alleged] culprits involved therein…”

4.2. Cybercrime Law and Freedom of Journalists / Human Rights Activists

In year 2020, a large number of journalists and social media activists became target of the draconian PECA 2016. Thirteen (13) incidents of actions under the PECA against journalists or human rights activists have been reported. The Federal Investigation Agency either initiated inquires or issued notices to journalists and online information practitioners or cases were registered against them under the cybercrime law. At least two of them were arrested as well for their allegedly unlawful online activities. Following are the details of the cases:

4.2.1 Azhar ul Haq Case

On January 17, 2020, Azhar ul Haq - a Lahore based journalist working as a reporter for Channel 5 and the Khabrain newspaper - was arrested by FIA Cybercrime wing from courtroom when he appeared to record his statement in a case registered against him on allegedly criticizing the government policies and state institutes through his social media account. The judicial magistrate remanded him in three-day custody of the Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) for his alleged involvement in uploading hate material against state institutions.

The FIA lodged First Information Report (FIR) under section 505 of Pakistan Penal Code i.e. PPC (Statements conducing to public mischief) and section 11 (Hate Speech) and section 20 (Offences against dignity of a natural person) of the PECA 2016 against him for allegedly displaying objectionable material against the judiciary and Pakistan army on his Facebook account and mocking the national anthem. Upon expiry of his three-day physical remand, he was sent to jail on judicial remand by a judicial magistrate. Later, he applied for the post arrest bail to the Sessions Court in Lahore but, on January 29, 2020, the Court dismissed the bail petition\textsuperscript{88}. However, after more than two months, the Lahore High Court (LHC) granted post-arrest bail to him as as FIA failed to conduct the forensic analysis of his computer and cell phone in the said time period\textsuperscript{89}.

4.2.2 Notice to Social Media Activist Gul Bukhari
On February 12, 2020, it was reported that the Counter Terrorism Wing (CTW) of FIA has summoned Ms. Gul Bukhari, a social media activist currently based in the United Kingdom (the UK), for her alleged defamatory remarks against national security institutions, judiciary and government of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf\textsuperscript{90}. In its official statement, as reported, FIA asked her to clear her position within 30 days in connection with charges of cyber terrorism against her. Otherwise, a case would be registered against her under the Anti-Terrorism Act of 1997 and the PECA of 2016 and process of extradition of the accused would be initiated after getting court orders. However, on the next day of issuance of the statement by the FIA, Ms. Bukhari denied the receipt of any notice from the FIA\textsuperscript{91}.

4.2.3 Application to FIA Against Satirists – Murtaza Chaudhry and Mustafa Chaudhry
On February 24, 2020, it was reported that a member of National Assembly from Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) has submitted an application against Murtaza Chaudhry and Mustafa Chaudhry, who hosts a political satire show on Neo TV, for insulting PM Imran Khan to the FIA’s cybercrime cell\textsuperscript{92}. The FIA’s official confirmed that the agency is looking into the complaint and will decide on it in the light of the relevant laws\textsuperscript{93}.

4.2.4 Contempt Proceedings against Matiullah Jan
On July 10, 2020, Matiullah Jan – a senior journalist – tweeted about a presidential reference against Justice Qazi Faez Isa\textsuperscript{94}. A lawyer – Mr. Adnan Iqbal – filed an application before IHC alleging that Matiullah Jan’s ‘tweet,’ has attempted to use the social media platform to scandalize the apex Court. Mr. Iqbal prayed for the initiation of proceedings against the Respondent under the Contempt of Court Ordinance, 2003. However, the IHC dismissed the plea for contempt proceedings stating that the dignity of judges is not “so frail and vulnerable so as to be harmed by a tweet on the social media”95.

The Supreme Court of Pakistan, on July 15, 2020, issued a contempt of court notice to Matiullah Jan over his alleged tweets against the judges and the judiciary96. The Pakistan Federal Union of Journalists in their press statement demanded the Supreme Court of Pakistan to withdraw the notice issued against the journalist97.

4.2.5 Bilal Farooqi Case
On September 11, 2020, Bilal Farooqi, a Karachi-based senior journalist associated with Express Tribune, was abducted from front of his residence in Karachi98. Later, an FIR was registered against him under section 500 (Punishment for defamation) and 505 (Statements conducing to public mischief) of PPC as well as under section 11 (Hate Speech) and section 20 (Offences against dignity of a natural person) of the PECA 2016 due to his allegedly anti-military and sectarian social media posts on twitter and facebook pages99. International community reacted to his abduction, followed by registration of a criminal case against him. UN High Commissioner for Human Rights Michelle Bachelet Jeria issued a statement saying: “We have raised our concerns directly with the government and we have urged immediate, concrete steps to ensure the protection of journalists and human rights defenders who have been subjected to threats,”100. Mr. Farooqui was released on execution of personal bond. On September 12, 2020, concerned investigation officer admitted before the court that registration of criminal charges against him under Pakistan Penal Code was a mistake101. The Court also acknowledged that the charges under the PECA law fell under the jurisdiction of the Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) and not ordinary police. The case was later adjourned for 14 days for further hearing.

4.2.6 Absar Alam Case
On September 11, 2020, Jhelum police registered a sedition case against Mr. Absar Alam – a veteran journalist and former chairman of the Pakistan Electronic Media Regulatory Authority (PEMRA). On September 14, 2020 Senate Human Rights Committee took notice of the FIR.

many voices of dissent and curb freedom of expression.”

4.2.7 Asad Ali Toor Case

On September 14, 2020, Mr. Asad Ali Toor – an Islamabad based journalist – tweeted

CHAPTER FIVE: MEDIA / JOURNALISTS SAFETY

5.1. Journalists Safety / Protection Law

In February 2020, the federal cabinet stopped short of giving its formal approval to a comprehensive draft bill for journalists’ protection\(^\text{127}\). The Bill was prepared by the Federal Ministry of Human Rights with the aims to “promote and effectively ensure the independence, impartiality, safety and freedom of expression of journalists and media professionals.” As reported, the cabinet, instead of approving the Bill for further process, clubbled it with an earlier prepared bill by the information ministry and sent both drafts to the law ministry for necessary adjustments and turned them into a single bill.

5.2. Journalists Defence Committee (JDC) of Pakistan Bar Council (PBC)

On September 29, 2020, amidst perception of a fast-shrinking space for dissent and right to express, the PBC — a mother institution regulating the affairs of the legal fraternity — constituted a Journalistic Defence Committee (JDC) to protect the rights of journalists. As reported, the committee was formed in view of alleged policies of the government undermining the freedom of expression through a draconian cybercrime law, particularly making it increasingly difficult for journalists to discharge and perform their duties independently in accordance with the demand of their professional obligations and journalistic practices\(^\text{128}\).

While woes of the media houses continued, the Pakistan Herald Publications filed a petition in the Sindh High Court on February 27, 2020, challenging the withholding of advertisements by the federal government from daily Dawn newspaper. The petition stated that the federal government has “suddenly stopped placing advertisements in Dawn since January 2020 and no reason was communicated to the publication for the same.”

On April 04, 2020, it was reported that the Federal Ministry of Information and Broadcast “has de-notified more than 6,000 publications after being identified as dummy papers.” As per media report, the Office of Press Registrar, Ministry of Information, gave a deadline of April 15 to all presses printing newspapers to fulfil all regulatory requirements. The report also stated that “Registrar has written letters to all deputy commissioners across the country to forward information related to presses where newspapers were being printed, under the “Press, Newspaper, News Agencies and Books Registration Ordinance, 2002.” However, the PFUJ expressed its concerns over the move to streamline printing press in the country.

The Federal Ministry also notified a new procedure for the payment of advertisement bills. As reported in media, “85 percent payment of the bills shall be made directly to media organization – newspaper, TV or a radio channel – while remaining 15 percent shall be made separately to the concerned advertising agency as commission in case of display advertisement.” Similarly, in case of classified advertisements, 100 percent payment of the bills shall be made directly to the media organization. However, APNS pressed its reservations on the notification issued by the Ministry on April 3 2020. “The APNS reiterated that the unilateral issuance of the notification by the Ministry strongly suggests that the consultation process is meaningless for the ministry as it has already decided to implement the draft policy inimical to fundamental press freedom.”

However, on May 19, 2020, it was reported that the government has released PKR 63 million to advertising agencies – for further distribution among media houses – out of total outstanding amount of six billion rupees.
